Good afternoon,

I am writing to support the proposal for the a new Lidl on the abandoned site of the former eye-sore that was the Spotted Cow public house, Salendine Nook.

With goodness knows how many new homes that KMC have given permission to be built in the area, it beggars belief that the plans for a brand new supermarket have been put on hold and rejected by KMC - Why!?! - the area where the former Spotted Cow was is in a disgusting state, with rats being see running around!

With hundreds of new homes building built in the close vicinity, surely anyone can see that there's a huge need for a local, new supermarket to compete with Sainsbury's, that has a monopoly on local shoppers at present. I can't for the life of me see why the plans have been refused. Lidl had designed, planned and were going to build using sustainable materials and techniques, incorporating stone elevations sympathetic to the surrounding area. To be honest it looked lovely - far better than any of the houses that KMC have given permission to be built around here.

PLEASE LET THIS PLAN GO AHEAD FOR THE LOCAL COMMUNITIES SAKE - WE NEED IT!
